Stabbing investigation continues

18-year-old Mike Westlund remains in hospital, recovering from stabbing

BY SHAWNE MOHL
& TAMARA COLLINS
Didsbury Review

RCMP continue their investigation trying to determine how three teens were stabbed at a rural residence south of Carstairs.

On March 11 Didsbury RCMP, Mountain View Regional Emergency Services (MVRES), and the Carstairs Fire Department all responded to an assault call.

"Our crews were notified at approximately 11:30 p.m. at night of an event south of Carstairs that involved multiple people, with multiple stabbings," explained MVRES executive director Nick Thane. "We responded and waited for the RCMP to arrive, just because of the scene situation."

Carstairs Fire Chief Thane Schaffer, one of the fire department members which responded, says that it's protocol for the department to respond in these types of situations.

"We responded to the scene to assist the Mountain View Regional ambulance that were on scene and they transported patients, and we remained on scene to assist the RCMP with their investigation," Schaffer explained. "It's standard protocol to be the first responders. There is a card setting of different levels of priority... we respond to the three most serious categories out of five."

Both MVRES and the Carstairs' Fire Department are required to wait for police presence before they respond to a scene of this nature.

RCMP still are not releasing many particulars about the situation, however it is known that the incident happened in a rural, party-like setting where youth from both the Carstairs and City of Calgary areas were present.

The reason for the assaults is being blamed on hockey rivalry, however RCMP wouldn't confirm this.

"I can't say that is true and I can't say that it is not true. I don't want to say anything that could hinder our investigation," said Didsbury RCMP Sgt. Kevin O'Dwyer.

Of the three youth who were stabbed, the only name that has been confirmed is 18-year-old Mike Westlund. Westlund, who is a grade 12 student at Carstairs' Hugh Sutherland School (HSS) was the most severely injured, and at the time of the incident was put into the intensive care unit at Calgary's Foothills Hospital.

The other two youth, whose ages and names have not been released, have both since been released from hospital.

According to Mike's older brother, Richard Westlund, the teen is starting to recover.

"He is making improvements every day," Richard said. "He is making strides every day. He is getting a little bit better every day and everybody here is really happy that he is doing as good as he is... he is a real fighter."

Mike is one of five children, and it is the large Westlund family as well as the community which has made this tragedy as bearable as it could be.

"It's tough on everyone but we have a real good family, so everybody is supporting everyone else," Richard said. "And, it's not just our family. We have had lots of visitors from the community come and bring food, people have sent cards and flowers and Mike has had lots of his friends stop by."

"The people from Carstairs and outside of Carstairs that know Mike and the family have been wonderful. They have been really, really good to the family for sure," Richard added.

As far as what happened the night of the stabbings, Richard wouldn't give any details on what his family has been told.

"I wasn't there, so I am not in the position to say anything."

Administration, teachers, and students throughout Chinook's Edge School Division (CESD) are hoping for the best, and send their thoughts out to the Westlund family, as well as the other stabbing victims.

"We always want kids to be safe, no matter where they are and we try to help them with decisions and help them make good decisions so that they remain safe," CESD Superintendent Jim Gibbons said. "Our hearts really go out to both of the families, the one in particular. It's such a tragedy and we hope this student (Westlund) recovers fully."

HSS's Vice-Principal Sean McKenna says that following the weekend stabbings, the school was on partial lockdown and the RCMP were present.

"Monday we had the school division's crisis team here. We had four counsellors here to provide support to the students that were traumatized by (the event) or felt like they needed to talk. We also had the RCMP here up until about noon because there were just concerns about retaliations from Calgary and that sort of stuff, so we felt it would be best that we have police presence. Of course nothing happened though," McKenna said.

At the beginning of the week there were a lot of bitter, emotional students but things are getting back to normal said McKenna.

"Things have kind of eased off now. There was a lot of anger all week and kids have needed to sort of talk it out and get it out because they were quite angry over the situation and how it all happened," McKenna said.

Janet Cornell, the school's family wellness worker, is available for students who still need to talk in the weeks to come.

"We don't really have any further information we can release at this time, other than the investigation is continuing," Fischer said. "No charges have been laid to date... we are still collecting evidence."

Sgt. O'Dwyer says that one part of the puzzle that they still need is to talk to Westlund himself, before charges are laid.

"Investigators want to speak with him, so they are waiting for him to recover," O'Dwyer said. "This is a fairly involved investigation, so it will take some time."

More details are expected to be released in the weeks to come.

Area MLAs say they won't seek Klein's job

MLA Marz pulling for Jim Dinning

BY DAN SINGLETON
For the Review

With Premier Ralph Klein announcing plans to leave politics next year, central Alberta Conservative MLAs say they are not interested in running for leadership of their party.

Klein announced last week that he will retire from politics in Oct. 2007. Rocky Mountain House MLA Ty Lund, Olds-Didsbury-Three Hills MLA Richard Marz, and Innisfail-Sylvan Lake MLA Luke Ouellette all say they will not seek to replace Klein.

"Oh no, I'm not interested," said Lund, who is Minister of Government Services. "What is required, the time commitment, I couldn't even think of taking that on."

Asked if he is backing one particular candidate, Lund replied: "As far as I am concerned the race hasn't even started. I'm not openly supporting anyone at this point, and I won't until the race is officially on."

While he doesn't plan to run, he is confident a good slate of hopefuls will come forward, said MLA Marz.

"I think it is safe to say that there is a good enough group of candidates out there that I'm confident that I don't have to run," said Marz. "I'm quite pleased that we've got a good group to choose from. I've worked with some of them inside and outside government."

Marz said he will be backing former Alberta Treasurer Jim Dinning if he runs.

"He was very instrumental in debt repayment and deficit elimination. He's had a broad level of experience in the private sector, which is important. I think he conducts himself in a very professional manner."

Asked what he plans to do to help Dinning, Marz said, "whatever he asks me to do", adding that could include giving speeches on Dinning's behalf.

MLA Ouellette, who is Minister of Restructuring, said he is not interested in leading the party and will not be campaigning for any other candidate at least until the race officially begins.

"I believe we have a leader in place right now," said Ouellette. "I am a supporter of Ralph Klein."

Ouellette said he hopes the new leader will make rural Alberta issues a high priority.

Among those thought to be planning to run for the leadership are Jim Dinning, Mark Norris, Lyle Oberg, Ed Stelmach, Ted Morton and Dave Hancock.

Premier Klein said Wednesday that any cabinet minister planning to run for the party leadership will have to step down from cabinet by June 1.

"If I see signs of them running, then I'll have them removed from cabinet. I'm prepared to crack the whip," said Klein. "This is to avoid any perception of any conflicts or personal advantages that one might have as a minister."

(The provincial cabinet is the collection of MLAs appointed as Ministers by the premier to oversee government departments such as Health and Education. The premier is also in cabinet).

As well, Tory backbenchers must also declare their intentions by June 1 if they plan to run for the party's leadership.

"I don't want to appoint someone (to cabinet) from the ranks who might become a leadership candidate," he said.

Premier Klein is expected to discuss his retirement plans and the timeline for stepping down at the party's annual general meeting at the end of the month.

Meanwhile, MLA Lund says there is some confusion about exactly when Klein will be stepping down.

"Here's where it gets confusing," said Lund. "He's been saying all along that he would be leaving in the fall of 2007. But the reports are saying he will be in office until March 2008, so I'm not sure what this all means. It may only mean that toward the end of October he will say, take the nominations."

Checks and balances in place for CBM production, officials say

BY SHAWNE MOHL
For the Review

Part 2 of 2

According to government officials and industry professionals the production of coal bed methane (CBM) in Alberta will never impact or harm the environment, the groundwater supply, or one's health.

The production of CBM in Alberta is being questioned by a number of Albertans, and as such a group of landowners and environmentalists have been touring around the Province passing out the message that, "CBM production is ruining land, water, and people's health."

Coal bed methane, typically referred to as CBM is natural gas - typically methane - found within coal seams under the ground. CBM used to be referred to as the 'trash gas'. It is the gas which used to kill the canaries in underground coal mines.

One of those speakers was Jessica Ernst, a woman who owns 50 acres of land just outside of the hamlet of Rosebud, near Drumheller.

At a recent meeting where she spoke she talked about being able to light her tap water on fire because there is so much methane in it, which she is blaming on the drilling of CBM wells and fracturing.

"It's really hard to believe that you are being poisoned by your own water," she said. "I believe we are up against a huge war for water. Water is needed for life, the water is just one impact of CBM (well production)."

Besides Ernst, who also runs an environmental consulting business, two Americans spoke. These two women painted a scary picture of contaminated groundwater supply, evaporation ponds which killed cattle when they drank it, sterilized land, among other things that didn't make anyone in the room question if CBM production is a safe thing to do.

The things which the speakers say have occurred in the United States could never and will never happen here, says the Alberta Energy and Utilities Board (EUB) spokesperson, Bob Curran.

"I don't know what the guidelines are like in Colorado or any of these other places (in the United States), but what I can tell you is this: the things they are alleging have happened in the US could not happen in Alberta without severe repercussions to any company that dared to perpetrate those types of things. It just wouldn't happen here. Companies know that if they break the rules they will suffer consequences," Curran said.

One company which the guidelines and rules they must follow very well is MGCV Energy, whose main business is drilling CBM wells throughout Central Alberta.

Doreen Rempel of MGCV Energy, who was present at the CBM meeting held in Trochu where these people spoke, said that her company works very closely with the government and landowners to ensure that everything is being done to protect everyone's interests.

"The impacts of CBM are very minimal," Rempel said, adding that the guidelines and regulations MGCV Energy has to comply wouldn't ever make it possible for an oil company in Alberta to ruin the water supply, environment, or pose any types of health risks to nearby landowners.

In the production of CBM there is, at times, saline water brought to the surface in the production of the natural gas. Saline (salt) water will sterilize land and nothing will grow if it ever comes in contact with the surface.

The speakers from the US explained how saline water from CBM wells has been spread across fields and ruined good pasture grounds for cattle, and also how oil companies have set up evaporation ponds which the saline water is placed in; however, according to the speakers the ponds aren't lined properly and have once again ruined the land.

Most of the coal seams where the natural gas is deposited throughout the Horseshoe Canyon basin, according to Rempel, have been naturally de-watered, so when the gas is brought to the surface there is no saline they have to deal with; however, in the cases where saline is brought to the surface it is injected back into the ground using injector wells.

The water, according to Rempel, never touches the ground and in no way under the strict regulations that they have to follow could it.

Rempel also pointed out that in Alberta oil companies are not allowed to use evaporation ponds to dispose of saline waters, they all have to be injected back into the subsurface.

There is no way that a CBM well could affect one's groundwater, MGCV Energy believes. According to Rempel the company has a cement lining between the well and the subsurface, so no contaminants could ever get out of the well.

"That is a government regulated process," she explained. "It isn't anything new. That has been happening in Alberta for decades."

During the drilling process, and even after the well is active, there are many guidelines that need to be followed.

Ponderings of the Heart

"Love Is ..."

MARGARET FRADLEY
For the Review

What would your response be to someone who asked you to spontaneously give them a definition of "love"? How do we define love?

Bill Morrow asked a number of younger children to give him their response to this very question. Let me share just a few of the answers received.

"When someone loves you, the way they say your name is different. You know that your name is safe in their mouth."

A four year old answered "Love is what makes you smile when you are tired." An eight year old responded by saying "You really shouldn't say 'I love you' unless you mean it." But if you mean it, you should say it a lot. People forget.

An answer from a six year old was "Love is like a little old woman and a little old man who are still friends, even after they know each other so well." A delightful response was that of a seven year old "Love is what is in the room with you at Christmas if you stop opening up your presents and listen."

My favourite is from a wise little four year old "When someone loves you, the way they say your name is different. You know that your name is safe in their mouth."

We might think these are unusual answers for such young children, but having a very profound young five year old as a grandson, I can believe each one.

Children often catch the deeper meaning of important things around them. Love for me, means unconditional love, giving and forgiving, and living in harmony one with another. It's a challenge for us all. How would you answer the query?

YOUR LETTERS

County Habitat for Humanity builds on hold

Mountain View Habitat for Humanity is an organization which enables lower income families and individuals to own their own home. Formed five years ago, Mountain View Habitat has the smallest population base of any Habitat in Canada. So it was with great pride that they completed their first house in Cremona this last fall.

During the five years, there has been a large number of people involved as board members, committee members and volunteers. Unfortunately at this time, they are unable to proceed with any further builds in the county until their membership numbers increase. Over the last year and a half, they have seen 6 members move away, 4 return to school, 1 leave for health issues and 2 retire after the Cremona build. This has decimated their numbers and left them without enough people to organize the Sundre build and left them in danger of losing their charitable organization status. "It has been our experience that volunteers to work directly on the build and donations are easier to find than finding new the board members for the organization. Unfortunately without an organizing body of board members and committee members the builds cannot go ahead," said Linda Hogg, secretary for the local organization.

Habitat for Humanity, through donations of money, labour and materials, is able to build homes with and provide no-interest mortgages to lower income families. Family selection is based on financial need, need of different housing, ability to take on the responsibility of home ownership, ability to repay the mortgage and willingness to put in 500 hours of sweat equity towards the home and the community.

During the next 6 weeks, Mountain View Habitat for Humanity is having a membership drive in hopes that they will still be able to proceed with the slated Sundre build for this summer. Board Members must be 18 or older while committee members have no age restrictions. They are holding a meeting in Sundre on March 29th at the Sundre Museum at 7:00 P.M. If you have a few hours each month to give to this project or want more information, please attend the meeting or call 556-6368, 507-7994 or 335-4212.

A family has been chosen for the Sundre Build which was originally slated for the summer of 2005. Problems in obtaining title for the Cremona property, pushed that back to the summer of 2006. "We are truly sorry that we cannot fulfil our commitment to this family until our membership rises," stated Linda. If you are looking for a way to make a difference, please call or attend the meeting.

Already looking forward to next year's run

Dear Rick & Dena et. al.,
Thanks of all the fun last weekend, and thank God for the weather too. I knew it would be a good one.

Well done!! Thanks for hanging in there with it. We are looking forward to next year's run.

Sincerely, Graham Sherick & Family

Thank you to all the kindhearted volunteers

I am writing this letter because I feel that all too often the kindhearted volunteers of our community get overlooked.

The Rosebud Run was a Chamber of Commerce sponsored event, but the sponsors and volunteers go way beyond that. The amount of hours planning and products donated by everyone involved in this and other events would be staggering. Let's not forget that most if not all of these people either have businesses of their own or hold down full-time jobs. These people give of their time because they get pleasure out of seeing a wish become a reality.

The majority of events that take place in Didsbury, are run by volunteers that care so much about our community, they are more than willing to give their free time to see that we all have yet another successful activity.

I wish to ask that as you observe each activity in town that you stop to think about the time and effort that all our volunteers so selflessly donate to please us.

I for one wish to thank all the volunteers that gave their time for this as well as all past and future events in and around our town - hats off to you because without you "the show could not go on".

Town cancels municipal census

BY TAMARA COLLINS
Didsbury Review

Town council has cancelled plans to conduct a municipal census this spring because councillors have learned government grants are based on federal census results.

"We did not conduct a municipal census because federal and provincial grants are based on the official federal census and that is where the benefits of higher population come from."

DOROTHY MOORE
Didsbury mayor

Council first approved holding a municipal census after administration said it would be a benefit to the community because the population would increase by at least 450 people.

This increase would help the town receive more grants in the future from the provincial and federal governments, which are usually based on per capita.

Therefore the town could recoup the $6,000 the census would cost.

Administration felt a municipal census was a good idea, even though a federal census was also to be conducted this year.

Alana Gibson, town planning and development assistant, attended a training session in Edmonton and learned that even if a municipal census was done, the government would still use the federal census numbers when the town applies for a grant.

"We did not conduct a municipal census because federal and provincial grants are based on the official federal census and that is where the benefits of higher population come from," said mayor Dorothy Moore.

Moore also said the town "would not be interested in having the population numbers be higher for costs that we pay per person."

Presently the town is using numbers from the 2001 census when applying for grants.

Since then the town has had 204 home starts.

The 2006 federal census results will not be ready until sometime in 2007.

Vance van Dam, president of Mountain View Credit Union, says continued growth is in the future for the credit union.

MVCU sees record year in growth

BY TAMARA COLLINS
Didsbury Review

Growth in loans, assets and deposits made 2005 a record-breaking year for the Mountain View Credit Union (MVCU).

During the 29th annual general meeting last Thursday, members of the MVCU learned that loans increased 17 per cent, now totalling $250 million, assets increased 22 per cent from 2005 totalling $311 million, and deposits increased $55 million bringing them up to $290 million.

Profit for the year, after $500,000 of taxes was deducted, is $1,455,000.

"This was a very good year. We've seen a lot of growth," said Norris Thompson, MVCU general manager. "Dividend paid out was five percent on common shares, a two percent rebate on loan interests, and a two percent bonus on deposit interest."

The actual total amount returned to its members was $758,000.

With two new branches under their belt the MVCU's memberships grew to 18,872, from last year's 17,785.

The three terms ending on the board of directors were Board president Vance van Dam, Jean Whittaker and Otto Hoff. The three were re-elected for another term.

"We won't know who our president is until our organizational meeting on Mar. 27, but hopefully Vance will be re-elected," said Thompson. "We have a strong board who is very well focused. They provide the required direction for the Credit Union

"We have a strong board who is very well focused. They provide the required direction for the Credit Union and they have the experience and capability to provide direction to the Credit Union in the future."

and they have the experience and capability to provide direction to the Credit Union in the future."

The board is hoping to continue to see growth, even though they presently have no plans of opening another branch.

"We want to see growth in all areas; ag, commercial and consumer, and in all our ten branches," said Thompson. "Members seemed very positive and we are all looking forward to a successful 2006."

Van Dam added the Credit Union is growing due to the growth in all its communities.

"All the communities are seeing growth and so we are seeing growth; especially in our bigger centres," said van Dam. "Our financial statements speak for themselves."

Buying Illegal Drugs: No Problem

SUBMITTED BY KATIE LUTZ
Partners in Crime Prevention

I'll be honest. I don't know how to get drugs. I wouldn't know the first place to go or what to say. I have heard the stories; you know the ones that say you just start asking around. Someone always knows someone who can hook you up. I thought about testing this theory but am too scared to see where this would lead me.

I know they are here, in our community. Even if you don't know someone using them, we can all see the results of drugs through the crime in our area. I asked the police what the drug trends in the community are.

and they agree that marijuana is very prevalent in the community as well as cocaine. Cocaine, a bit less than marijuana because it is more costly. Marijuana is easy to get for anyone, even newcomers to town and youth. Actually I have heard it said that it is easier for youth to get marijuana than cigarettes and alcohol. Our close proximity to Red Deer and Calgary make obtaining E (ecstasy) and Crystal Meth easy too. An individual can travel to either place, buy more than their share and come back home and "re-distribute" to make a small profit and cover their habit as well.

With this information you could say at least it is not being made in our community and that individuals wanting illegal drugs still need to go to the city to get it but, as our community police officers say, we are seeing grow operations becoming more and more prevalent in our area. And let's not forget that one of the largest crystal meth labs to be discovered to date was in our own backyard.

Our community has not had a lot of drug education opportunities and because of this the Partners in Crime Prevention are hosting the play "Wasted Angels". Come out on Monday, March 27, 2006 at 7:00 p.m. at the Didsbury Memorial Complex to learn more about what crystal meth and other drugs can do to our community.

Town prepares budget

BY TAMARA COLLINS
Didsbury Review

Town council has been busy working on the budget for the past several months, but it is still unclear whether 2006 taxes will increase or decrease.

"It would be premature to talk about tax rates until we know what is going to happen with the education property tax," said mayor Dorothy Moore.

Council has seen a draft budget but they continue to conduct meetings for changes.

"We have seen a draft budget, and are having additional budget meetings to bring additional information, to make adjustments, and to receive the estimates for the cost of our capital projects," said Moore.

"Councillors are considering all of the needs of the community and the input of residents as they work to ensure the long-term sustainability and plan for decades of growth."

Council hopes to pass the final draft of the budget at the April 4 town council meeting.

Checks and balances

Aside from the government regulations MGV Energy says that they consult with rural landowners and try their best to get any concerns met and addressed prior to drilling beginning.

"We like to talk about win-win situations," Rempel said. "We are always willing to talk to landowners, and try to get their questions answered."

One of the complaints which the landowner near Rosebud had was about the noise of compressors involved with CBM production.

According to Rempel MGV Energy, even though it's not required, stations all of its compressors together for numerous wells in one central location. They try to locate the compressor stations as far away from residential homes as possible.

Rempel says that CBM is a reliable, long-term source of natural gas that everyone uses in their homes, offices, and businesses each day,
and this is the reason why companies like MGV Energy see the benefit of drilling these wells, which she believes are 100 per cent safe.

"People realize that (CBM production) is a reliable source (and) we require higher densities, and this is a good solution," she said.
"We have to co-exist, we have a fundamental right to the access of our mineral rights and landowners have the right to enjoy and use their land. We have to learn how to co-exist."

According to Curran he says that the EUB has done extensive research into a number of complaints and it has been determined that CBM production, to date in Alberta, has not been the reason why some water wells have appeared to lose pressure or the quality has decreased.

"There is no evidence to support (affecting water wells)," he said. "We are a very vigilant and strict regulator. Any suggestion that somehow these companies can come in and do things that would allow them to compromise the quality of groundwater, under our rules is simply untrue."

Curran says in the Rosebud area where Jessica Ernst lives there has been methane found in the water wells in that area for decades, long before CBM production came into the picture.

"In the Rosebud area
because a lot of water wells are completed in coal seams they have had methane in water wells for decades, it's a common problem, and actually just about anywhere in Alberta you could drill down and hit a coal seam because we have that much coal in this Province."

The EUB is a very strict regulator, Curran says, and even though there are no specific regulations that relate to CBM production, there are ample rules which will ensure no oil and gas production of any kind will affect the environment.

Chamber Chat

submitted

The Chamber of Commerce showed a movie at its March meeting, "Independent America: The Two-Lane Search for Mom and Pop". This video had those who saw it talking about the independence of small business owners and how to incorporate some of the ideologies into our own shopping here in Didsbury. With the town embarking on new economic development planning, and the Chamber promoting its own "Local First" awareness campaign, this kind of program helps us all evaluate our shopping habits and provoke thought on our own economic strategies.

Can you maintain the character of your town by allowing big box stores in? And how do you balance that with the philosophy of giving people a choice?

Why shop locally? You can talk to the owner. You can learn more about what you're bringing into your home. It's become very important to folks nowadays to feel some sort of authenticity to life, something real. You get that by shopping, and visiting, with your local business owner. It's becoming a way for people to take control in a world that is going out of control. It's about putting the money back into the system, and it's also about eating and using what your neighbours make.

From a traveller's point of view, if our community starts looking like everywhere else, what will intrigue or entice people to come here? Tourists, especially those from outside Alberta, are looking for the Canada of yesterday, mom and pop businesses. They like the uniqueness of small-town Alberta, and that's what the Chamber is trying to preserve.

Corporate chains don't have to be the first stop on your shopping list. Local business owners keep the local economy thriving. They make our towns interesting. They teach us how to behave more like citizens and less like consumers. They provide hometown security, friends who can provide what we need in our time of need. They give us alternatives. They give us our town.

A life where people park and walk down Main Street and shop store to store should be protected. That's what the Didsbury Chamber of Commerce is promoting with its Local First awareness campaign. Let's all work together to make Didsbury the community that supports local business - first!

Crystal Meth, from the highest high to the lowest low

"Wasted Angels" play, a real life account of the drug

BY TAMARA COLLINS
Didsbury Review

A high on methamphetamine (crystal meth) leaves you feeling an artificial self-confidence and gives you what is labelled a "superman syndrome", according to AADAC, but once those symptoms fade you are left feeling lethargic, depressed, withdrawn and in many cases suicidal.

Meth is a highly addictive drug that is produced in a clandestine laboratory setting. It appears either off-white, crystalline power, brown granules, or transparent crystals.

It sells for as cheap as $10 to $15 for 1/10 of a gram, which is almost half the price of cocaine, and people can become hooked after just one hit, according to the RCMP "K" division.

What makes meth one of Alberta's most popular drug; it is highly addictive, production of it is easy, and the potentially high profits to its producers.

"This is a mind-altering drug, and people can become addicted after only one use," said Cpl. Kevin Fischer, Didsbury RCMP. "With extended use this drug can kill a person."

Crystal Meth can take a completely rational person and turn them into an irrational person in just a few minutes, according to Cpl. Fischer. He also said it is used by a variety of ages, from early secondary school to late adulthood.

"This is the most powerful and detrimental drug that is out there right now."

CPL. KEVIN FISCHER
Didsbury RCMP

"This is the most powerful and detrimental drug that is out there right now," said Cpl. Fischer. "A person on the drug can be completely unpredictable and irrational. There is a huge risk of harm to themselves and those around them. They have a feeling of invincibility."

Although the drug has been noted in our community, it is not yet a common problem.

"It is being more and more introduced into the community," said Cpl. Fischer. "It is readily available in Calgary and Red Deer, and is occasionally available in Didsbury."

George McLeod, drug educator for Chinook's Edge School Division says, although not a big problem yet, this drug has been a problem for some students in the division.

"I have had a few kids in the whole division talk to me about Crystal Meth, kids who have had experience with it," said McLeod. "It is definitely out there though, and students can access it."

McLeod, who will be answering questions March 27 following the presentation of the play "Wasted Angels" at the Multi-Purpose Room in the Memorial Complex, says awareness of what this drug can do, is the key to stopping it from becoming a bigger problem.

"Wasted Angels" which will take place at 7 p.m. depicts what happens when this drug comes into your life, and has been called "captivating".

"This play provides the community an opportunity to become more familiar with the perils of the drug," said Cpl. Fischer. "This can help prevent any drug problem."

Wasted Angels is not only for parents to see, but everyone is encouraged to come.

"We thought people needed to be informed about Crystal Meth," said Katie Lutz, crime prevention coordinator for Didsbury. "Awareness is one of the best ways of prevention, and although this is not a problem here yet, it is on its way."

Lutz added that with its availability and price, if the community is not careful it could take over.

"The effects this drug can have on a community is damaging, so let's beat the problem by prevention not reaction."

There is also a morning performance of the play, which still has some room left for spectators.

If you would like to attend the morning performance at 10 a.m. call Katie at 335-7354.

"This drug is in our backyard so tomorrow is not the time to deal with it, the community needs to take action now," said Cpl. Fischer. "This is a highly respected play and it would be of value for anyone to attend."

Focus on the Family

The dangers of inheritance

DR. DOBSON
Focus on the family

Question:

My wife and I are approaching our retirement years, and we have been very blessed financially. We own several large businesses and will have a sizable estate to pass on to our three children. How do you feel about leaving large amounts of money to the next generation, and is there a right and wrong way to do it?

My views on that subject may not be what you want to hear, but I can only tell you what I've observed and what I firmly believe. In a word, I'm convinced that it is very dangerous to give large amounts of money to kids who haven't earned it.

A sociological study published some time ago, called "Rich Kids," validated the concerns I have observed. The authors of that study concluded that large trust funds are usually destructive to those who inherit them. The case studies they cited were convincing.

Human history also confirms the dangerous influence of money. Men and women have lusted for it, killed for it, died for it, and gone to hell for it. Money has come between the best of friends and brought down the proud and mighty. And alas, it has torn millions of marriages limb from limb!

It's also been my observation that nothing will divide siblings more quickly than money. Giving them a large inheritance increases the probability of tension and disharmony within a family. Your sons and daughters will fight over control of your businesses and they'll resent those who are designated as decision makers. Some of them will lose their motivation to be responsible and will experiment with various addictive behaviours - from gambling to alcoholism.

There are exceptions to these negative consequences, of course, and some people do handle wealth and power gracefully. But it is a difficult assignment at best and one that requires the greatest maturity and self-control.

The question to ask is whether or not leaving large amounts of money to offspring is worth the risk it imposes on those you love. You must decide if you want to remove from your children the challenges that helped you succeed - the obligation to work hard, live frugally, save, build and produce by the sweat of your brow. Do you feel right about replacing that need for discipline and industry with a ready-made empire that can be mis-handled or squandered?

Please understand that I know this view is unconventional. One of the reasons people work so hard is so their children won't have to. They love their kids immeasurably and want to make things easier for them. Further, they've invested a lifetime in the development of a business and the accumulation of wealth. Are they now going to sell it and walk away? That's an unpleasant prospect for any parent. I can't make that decision for others, of course. My obligation is simply to present the issue as I see it. And in my experience, the inheritance of wealth is threatening to family relationships, self-discipline, spiritual commitment and responsible living. It should be done only with great care, years of preparation and much prayer.

Colts awards night

The Mountain View Colts season has come to an end, but not without many successes over the past year. This year's team had a hard fought battle near the end of the season with Lacombe, to gain second spot in league standings. Three of our players, to date, have been invited for try-out camps in Alberta Junior "A" League and the British Columbia Junior "A" League. Three of our players, Scott Murphy, Byron Campbell and Ian Brander were selected to North Division All Star Team. Four of our players, Scott Murphy, Byron Campbell, Ian Brander and Jeff Clazie were in the top twenty-five of the scoring race. In addition, the coaching staff in preparing for the upcoming year, utilized "Affiliate Players" from local midget teams to highlight the talent in this division. Most importantly of all, was that this hockey team brought together hockey players and fans from the Mountain View County. We have players from Didsbury, Carstairs, Cremona, Olds, and Sundre. Fans from all of these towns were shown a high quality of hockey and the number of fans in the arena for the home games showed their appreciation of the hockey played. None of this could have been accomplished without the unselfish support of the local companies and organizations who saw the need for such a team in our community.

Now the emphasis is on planning the Awards Night Banquet to be held on April 8th, at the Memorial Complex. The event will start with cocktails, between 6:00 - 6:45 P.M., followed by a catered banquet at 7:00 P.M.

Guest speaker for the event will be Joe Murphy, a graduate of Didsbury Minor Hockey who went on to play in various ranks of hockey (Junior "A", College, East Coast League, American Hockey League, Ottawa Senators (camp), Europe). Joe was an "Affiliate Player" with the Colts when they last won the Championship. In addition, we will be presenting various awards to players as well as having a "Silent Auction" and other fun events throughout the evening. Tickets for this event can be purchased at Didsbury Home Hardware, Ward's Value Drug Mart, Jenny Collinge at the Memorial Complex Concession or by calling 335-4591 - No tickets will be held at the door.

Didsbury Lacrosse

Can you name that club?

BY TAMARA COLLINS
Didsbury Review

If you want your chance at two tickets to the Calgary Flames or four tickets to any Calgary Roughnecks home game in April, you need to come up with a creative name for the Didsbury Lacrosse Association.

The search for a name started last year when Didsbury hosted a tournament for the mini tykes and names went up on all the dressing rooms.

According to Dave Nelson from the Lacrosse Association, all the other teams had names and they decided they needed an identifier of their own.

"We will put the name on everything: shirts, shorts, and make a logo with it."

DAVE NELSON
Didsbury Lacrosse Assoc.

"All you have to do is submit a name and then three midget-aged kids and three kids from the tykes will come to consensus which one they like best," said Nelson. "We will put the name on everything: shirts, shorts, and make a logo with it."

People can also submit their own logo if they like.

The name will be the official name for all teams from the mini tykes to the midgets, and possibly that of a junior team next year.

You can submit your name to the Didsbury Aquatic Centre up until April 1.

Multi-judging show

BY CRYSTAL HECK
Country Critters 4-H

Country Critters is having a great time. A few of our members went to a Multi-judging show in Olds, where they had a blast. Our public speaking events are now finished, and the people who moved on to the district level did great, and the club had a great time hosting the district event for the few clubs around us. We are also starting to sell flower baskets for a club fundraiser, so if anyone is interested, please contact Della Kyncl at 335-8767.

We will be attending the Didsbury trade fair on April 1st and 2nd, so we hope that all goes well.

Our club will be hosting a fun day for other canine clubs in our area on April 30th; we are starting agility now, and it should be a blast.

What's with all the dogs?!

The 2006 Rosebud Run Sleddog Classic might be history now, but that doesn't mean the Didsbury & District Chamber of Commerce doesn't still have "a thing" for dogs. Have you seen the Trade Show posters? They're full of dalmatians!!

Now you might ask, what exactly do dalmatians have to do with a Trade Show? "Well, nothing really," says Trade Show Co-Chair, Greg Poirier, with a smile. "But how we came up with the idea was a stroke of brainstorming genius."

The committee was sitting around one night trying to come up with a theme for the annual event, one of the largest held in Didsbury for the past 20 years. Someone said that we couldn't do "100" again. (The Chamber celebrated Alberta's and Didsbury's centennials last year.) "Then another person jokingly said 'how about 101?'," said Poirier. "It just flowed from there," added Poirier's Co-Chair, Kathleen Windsor. "101 ... 101 dalmatians ... 2006 being the Chinese year of the dog ... even the sleddogs came up. It was so cool to see the flow of ideas that night!"

The next step was taking all those very odd ideas to the man with the vision. For the second year in a row, the posters were designed by Chamber member, Spectrum Design and Drafting Studios. Owner Lance Plewis said, "we don't really do this sort of thing. We design homes. But we do enjoy challenging projects, and this one was definitely that."

Over 100 exhibitors will be showcasing their products and services at the Didsbury Trade Show, April 1 and 2. There's something for everyone, whether you're looking at home renovations, new floor coverings for your home or office, buying or selling your home, taking a trip, thinking of a new stereo system or computer, new cosmetics and jewellery, hand-crafted items ... the list goes on and on!

And the entertainment! There's home and garden demonstrations. The Alberta Country Opry will be performing on Saturday and the fiddler's jamboree on Sunday. Come early on Saturday for the pancake breakfast, and don't forget to take in the 53rd Annual Art Show & Sale. Hungry? Stop by the food court in the MPR and enjoy a bite from your favourite Didsbury restaurants. And kids, don't worry, we haven't forgotten about you. There's free swimming and waterslide at the Aquatic Centre, and an AstroJump Bouncer, shaped as ... you guessed it ... a dalmatian!

Once again, it's going to be a terrific show! So, "Get up and Go!" to the Didsbury Trade Show. Details on the Trade Show can be seen on the web at www.didsburychamber.ca.

God Saw You ...

God saw you getting tired,
When a cure was not to be.
So He wrapped his arms around you,
and whispered, "Come to me".
You didn't deserve what you went through,
So He gave you rest.
God's garden must be beautiful,
He only takes the best.
And when I saw you sleeping,
So peaceful and free of pain
I could not wish you back
To suffer that again.

Our family chain is broken
And nothing seems the same
As God calls us one by one
The chain will link again
We pray to God in heaven, please,
Take this message up above
Tell mom how much we miss her Ang give her all our love.

We miss you more and more every day

230 THANK YOU

The Family of Betty McCue would like to thank you for all of your help and support in caring for Betty in her final days. We appreciate all of the cards, flowers, food trays, assistance with lunch and well wishes. To all of the staff of Unit 1 and the Acute Care Unit at the Didsbury Hospital... the compassion and care for Betty and the family was unrelenting. Through it all, your "upbeat" attitudes helped make our days more pleasant in a very difficult time. Thanks to Dr. Vervaeck and to the paramedics for your kindness and care. Thank you to Dianne and staff at Personal Alternative in making Betty's service so special, to the Very Reverend Fabian Huh in officiating, and to Melinda Garland for "lending" us her voice at the service. It's when you live in a small community that you truly realize the value of friendship and community. Thank you all once again. Tom McCue Sr. & Family 12-11
